

ESKİŞEHİR OSMANGAZI UNIVERSITY
Graduate School of Natural and Applied Sciences

HORTICULTURE DEPARTMENT MSc PROGRAM EDUCATIONAL OBJECTIVES

- Using scientific methods, gaining the ability to evaluate, develop, and generate the Horticultural produces whose cultivation is regarded commercially important in terms of morphological, physiological, anatomical, and biotechnological features,
- Conducting research and development operations in order to solve existing challenges in the growth of horticulture products, as well as to increase crops quality and yield, while taking into consideration agricultural technologies that evolve in response to global climate change,
- Because of the theoretical and practical knowledge, skills, competence, basic values, and professional qualifications earned during the postgraduate education process, postgraduate education is preferred by both the public and commercial sectors,
- To educate agricultural engineers who have adopted the principle of ethical values in their professional lives, who are aware of environmental and social issues, and who are actively involved in problem-solving activities.