

ESKİŞEHİR OSMANGAZI UNIVERSITY
Graduate School of Natural and Applied Sciences

INDUSTRIAL ENGINEERING DEPARTMENT PhD PROGRAM EDUCATIONAL OBJECTIVES

- In the design, development, management, and improvement of production, service, and information systems, applying the principles of management science, ergonomics, and optimization to bring together computer sciences and raise graduates who serve humanity by observing positive disciplines within the framework of quality.
- To educate leading engineers who will work in national and international companies in order to determine the effective ways of using labor, machinery, materials, information, and energy in the light of technological advances to provide products and services, by using information technologies, and to apply them with a global perspective and innovative approaches.
- To educate postgraduates who specialize in business and academic life by transferring high-level knowledge and experience and providing quality education opportunities.
- To raise graduates who are aware of the necessity of lifelong learning, can access information, follow the developments in science and technology, and constantly renew themselves.
- To train academics who carry out original research activities in national and international academic and research institutions.